Kingsland

Low Country home plans get their name from the coastal region of South Carolina and Georgia, which is commonly referred to as “The Low Country.” This region often presents a unique set of architectural challenges, including high water tables, high humidity and sometimes severe wet weather.
The Kingsland design features a broad hipped roof over the expansive wrap around porch. The design include 3 bedrooms and 2 baths with a large open living area that opens onto the porch. The plan includes a walkout bay window in the dining area. All the bedrooms are privately located in the back of the house, with a guest bath at the end of the hall. This design will fit any environment, from the farm to the lake.

The square footage and other dimensions on our floor plans are approximate. Renderings are not intended to be an accurate representation of the home and are often shown with optional features and/or third-party additions that can be added at additional cost if available in your region or situation.
